

Letter of Recommendation for Jason Curtman

15 May 2011

To Whom It May Concern:

As a former Presiding Commissioner of this county (Stoddard), and as a business owner in the town of Bloomfield, I have had unique opportunities to observe Jason Curtman's Performance.

I have known Jason for several years and have had almost daily contact with him since he became Chief of Police in Bloomfield in 2006. He is one of the most highly motivated individuals I have ever met. He always strives to be the best and continually works to improve his knowledge and capabilities.

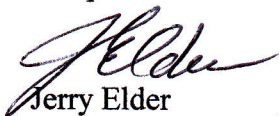

I have been most impressed with Jason's honesty and integrity. He will not lie to you, steal from you or try to mislead you. I have seen him put his job on the line because someone wanted him to break a promise he made to a prisoner during an interrogation.

He has especially impressed me with his desire and ability to communicate with local community residents and to involve them to make sure the relationship between the residents and the police department was as good as it could be. Two examples of his efforts were the establishment of a Police Department website and a citizen's advisory council.

Jason's technical skills in police work are excellent and he is an outstanding teacher. My wife and I have both completed his "concealed carry" class and were very well impressed with both the content and the presentation. He kept the class's attention with his examples and personal experiences. Those attending the classes learned a lot.

Jason already has a wealth of experience and unlimited learning potential. He can be and do whatever he wants.

I highly recommend Jason Curtman for any job or position you may have. If he does not feel he has the knowledge or ability to do it, he has the good judgment and integrity to not accept it.
